$30,000 STOCK Of Goods For Sale!

Beginning Thursday, January 17, and continuing for 30 days, we will sell our entire stock of dry goods, boots, shoes, hats, clothing and groceries at actual wholesale cost. Everything goes in this sale except wagons and farm implements. A large assortment of buggies is included in this cost sale. We have over-bought for the season and want to reduce our $30,000 in the next 30 days to $15,000. If you are "from Missouri" we can "show you" we are doing what we claim. This sale will be for spot cash--nothing will be charged--as we need the money more than we need the goods. President Roosevelt could not buy on credit from us during this sale. Opportunity knocks once at every man's door.

BURTON PEEKS INTO THE SENATE TO DRAW MILEAGE

Washington, Jan. 24.—One of the most remarkable procedures in the history of the senate occurred yesterday in order to avoid a technicality which prevented Senator Burton of Kansas from drawing his mileage for the present session. In order to have his requisition honored it is necessary for some official of the senate to take oath that he had seen the senator in the chamber, but since the indictment and conviction of the Kansas senator he has not appeared in the chamber. There is no disposition on the part of anyone to withhold the mileage and the senator therefore was expected to step from the cloak room into the chamber for a moment in order that he might be seen by some official. He declined, but an employed engaged him in conversation in the cloak room near the entrance to the chamber. The employe suddenly turned the senator so that he faced the chamber, and the attention of the officials previously having been directed toward the door, he was seen from the chamber. It was then certified that Senator Burton was in attendance and his mileage was paid him.

STEAMER WRECKED AND ONE HUNDRED DROWNED

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Cape Beale says the Valencia, a steamer of San Francisco, went ashore on the Vancouver Island coast near Cloose and was lost. The lighthouse keeper says one hundred were drowned.

The news of the disaster on the Vancouver Island coast is meager, being confined to the message received by Capt. Gaudin, agent of the Marine, from Lighthouse Keeper Patterson at Cape Beale, saying:

"Steamer wrecked between here and Cloose, about 100 drowned. Nine reached telegraph hut. Wire more particulars as soon as possible."

Cloose is about five or six miles from Carmanah Point and 65 miles from Victoria. Capt. Beale is 120 miles from Victoria at the easterly entrance to Barkley Sound.

CANNON DEFEATED THE STATEHOOD INSURGENTS

Special to the News.

Washington, Jan. 24, 4:05 p. m.--By a vote of 192 to 165 the house of representatives today adopted the rule presented by the committee on rules which prohibits any consideration of amendments or substitutes for the statehood bill. This insures a vote on the bill Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock and insures the passage of the measure in its omnibus form.

The outlook for the measure in the senate is still gloomy.

Williams Murder Trial.

The local office of U. S. Marshal is in receipt of a large batch of subpoenas in the James R. Williams murder case, set for trial Feb. 12. Williams is accused of killing Lively at Francis. One trial at Ada resulted in a hung jury, whereupon the case was transferred to Pauls Valley. Court convenes there Jan. 29 but witnesses will save time and expense by taking notice that they are not wanted till Feb. 12. The same may be said concerning the Ord Rich rape case, which is set for the same date.

Railroad Rate Bill

Washington, Jan. 24.—The Republicans and Democrats of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce have agreed upon a bill for railroad rate control.

Cotton Still Declining.

The cotton market continued to go down today. N. Y. March futures opened at 11.36, reached 11.45 and closed at 11.32. N. Y. spots fell off 10 points closing at 11.90. Today cotton is lower than at any time since last October.

SOCIETY ALL AFLUTTER OVER WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

Washington, Jan. 24.—Many a Washington society woman would like very much to know if she will be one of the fifteen hundred. Those numerals represent the number of invitations that will be issued to the wedding of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth. Several ambitious women in Washington are prepared to take flight just as soon as they know definitely that they are not included in the list. Some matrons already are negotiating with Florida hotel keepers. No woman with social pretensions will care to acknowledge that she did not get a card to the wedding. Of course if she is ill and has to go to Florida on her physician's advice her status will be saved. The marriage ceremony will not last more than twenty minutes. There will be full choral service and the boys' choir of St. John's will sing the processional. Among the selections will be: "Be thou Faithful Unto Death" from "Elijah" and "Tis Our Wedding Morn" by Poniatowski.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the clergyman and the especially invited guests will go to the state dining room where the health of the young couple will be pledged and the bride will cut the wedding cake.

A substantial breakfast is planned, but everything will have to be served from the buffet. To seat 500 guests is impossible. The bridal couple will receive congratulations in the Blue room. This will give the guests more room. The reception will last until 2 o'clock and Mr. Longworth and his bride hope to leave Washington about 4. Their destination is still a secret, although it is rumored that Georgia and Florida are being discussed.

MR. RUSSELL TALKS OF FARMERS' UNION AFFAIRS

Warner, I. T., Jan. 24.—Early in last week a meeting was called and held at South McAlester for the purpose of forming a union of the farmers in Indian Territory, separate from that of Oklahoma. Campbell Russell of Hereford says that the matter was first submitted to a referendum vote of the two territories and that of those reporting—about 2,900 against and 2,100 for—came from Oklahoma, where there was a divided vote and many unions reporting against with unanimous vote, while in the Indian Territory the vote was even greater, in opposition to a separate state union. He declares that he is opposed, as others are, to action at this time, as no matter which way the action results it will be counted as a political move. There were but twenty-three accredited delegates in the convention as organized, he says, and he expects no further work in the movement. Mr. Russell declares that the farmers in the territories are getting together on the cash basis and the Farmers' Union Bank proposition. He is showing a contrast cartoon, a half page at fair, a lead pencil sketch in the Indianoman, drawn by Charles Windes, a 15-year old boy, showing the mortgage conditions and the improvement under the Farmers' Union movement. "Whatever comes," Mr. Russell said, "we must be united, and we must work in common and you can bet on it that we will if it is possible, and I hope to see that it is."

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

Prickly Ash Bitters

A Remedy that Has Proved Its Value For Kidney, Liver and Bowel Disorders in a Brilliant Record of Cures Performed.

It is the right medicine for such purpose, the greatest, the most successful system cleanser and regulator. It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently urge the vital organs to a better and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

Some dealers will try to sell you something which they say is just as good as PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. DON'T TAKE IT. Get the genuine with the large figure 3 in red on the front label. It will give you the results you desire. Put up in 19 ounce bottles. Price, 1.00.

Sold by all Druggists.

SICK HALF THE TIME.

In diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs men and women once strong, hearty and vigorous are soon reduced to comparative helplessness, at times they are able to get about and do odd jobs, at others prostrated completely. This was the experience of thousands of persons who owe their present good health to the great healing effect of PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Why endure all this distress when a remedy that has proved its power and effectiveness in such ailments can be so easily obtained. PRICKLY ASH BITTERS is a kidney tonic, liver and stomach stimulant and bowel purifier combined, therefore it exercises its cleansing and restorative influence uniformly in every part of the body. For the weakening irregularities peculiar to women PRICKLY ASH BITTERS has obtained the very highest endorsement. It corrects stomach and bowel disorders in children.

THE RELATIVE VS. THE ROUGH RIDER.

Runs now the rumor that Roosevelt will give Ben Colbert's job to a kinsman, of Muskogee. In connection it is explained that the President has weakened somewhat on his Rough Rider comrades. Well, it can not be disputed that blood is thicker than smoke.

Yet the President runs the risk of caustic criticism. He should be mindful that there exists an odious word frequently used to designate the political care of the kinsman. This word is a sweet morsel upon the tongue of the politician and the paragrapher. It is spelled, nepotism. While the News is not disposed to lay great stress upon the incident and try to arouse the wrath of the people, still there be those who will take delight in magnifying the matter and shouting another note of alarm. These will point out that there are already many sore spots in the two territories resulting from carpet bag appointments. They will paint a fearful picture of the wrongs of nepotism piling up on carpet-bagism like Ossa on Pelion.

Both Sides Are Determined.

Washington, Jan. 24.—On the eve of the battle over the statehood bill thirty-four republican insurgents held a caucus yesterday in Representative Babcock's committee room and outlined their fight against the Hamilton bill. This is the largest number of republican members that has been at any anti joint statehood meeting and Mr. Babcock, Mr. Mondell and other leaders of the fight against the Hamilton bill, say it shows that their strength is increasing as the fight approaches. The insurgent leaders now claim sixty republican votes against the proposed rule to prevent amending the Hamilton bill, and say there is no truth in the rumor that democrats are leaving the city and have been induced to remain away so they cannot vote with the democratic organization, which is in harmony with the republican insurgents and wants to prevent the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as one state.

Democrats who are out of the city are being summoned by Representative Williams, leader of the minority, to return in time to oppose the anti-amendment rule. Although the democrats had no statehood caucus, their position has been plainly outlined by Mr. Williams and the democratic members on the Territories Committee made a minority report so strongly in opposition to the Hamilton bill that no Democratic member is expected to desert his party stand on this issue providing he is in the House when a vote is taken.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

THIS strictly commercial business of shark hunting is done in small sloops, whose headquarters are in the more northerly Norwegian ports. The crews are for the most part made up of pure-blooded descendants of the Vikings, who are still to be found in any number among the cod-fishers of Hammerfest and Tromsø. And a magnificent race of men they are! Accustomed from boyhood to a life of hardship, they have a way of treating Father Neptune with a slightly contemptuous toleration, like an old friend of somewhat uncertain temper, whose rapid changes from smiling benevolence to wild, blustering anger are on the whole rather amusing than otherwise.

They care nothing for danger, and little for suffering—in themselves or in others. Why, then, should they stop to think that perhaps a maimed, but still living, shark can feel?

The fishing is done off the coast of Iceland in about eighty fathoms of water. Three or four gallow-like structures are rigged up around the sides of the sloop, and from each of these hangs a pulley-block, over which runs a strong rope; and to the end of this baited hook is fastened. A plentiful supply of ground-bait is thrown out to attract the quarry, and such is the eagerness with which the sharks take the bait, that sometimes each one of these gallow-like fishing rods will have its fish hooked and fighting for life, all at the same time.

There is no "playing" the fish; it is not necessary or possible, and the powerful tackle is hardly likely to break, no matter how fiercely the hooked shark may struggle. But the shark is not, for his size, a game fish; and, except when he is actually being hoisted up out of the water, there is no very serious strain on the tackle. If he does now and then get away, it is not because he ever manages to break the line, but because a lightly fixed hook easily tears through the soft cartilaginous skeleton of his head, and so sets him free.

As soon as a shark has taken one of the baits, the hauling tackle attached to his particular gallow is manned, and without any superfluous fuss or ceremony he is hauled up to the sloop, and hoisted just clear of the water.

He is not brought on board at all, but with a few bold slashes his liver is cut out as he hangs, and is thrown into a tub, to be further dealt with later. Then his eyes are put out, and he is cut adrift—to go and complete the tardy process of dying where and how he pleases.

All this sounds very horrible; but there is one curious fact which goes far to make us believe that this death cannot, after all, be such a cruel one as at first appears. It is this: the fishermen say that, unless they put out the shark's eyes, he will afterward cause them a lot of trouble, by coming and taking the bait a second time.

It sounds incredible; but the statement is thoroughly well authenticated by eye-witnesses, who have seen a liverless shark do just this very thing. Scientists, doubtless, are right in saying that the shark (which by anatomical classification is one of the lowest of fishes) does not feel pain in the way more highly organized animals feel it. We will cling to that belief; for it is consoling to us, if not to the shark, who is thus sacrificed that his liver may supply us with—what?

It is a secret not to be spoken aloud. Norway is one of the great centres of the cod trade, and from cod is made cod-liver oil, and—shark-liver oil tastes and looks exactly like it.—Pearson's Magazine.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

Indian nature was about the same in 1876 as it was in 1804, says the author of "The Trail of Lewis and Clark." In illustration of this he tells of a time when Lewis and Clark, on their journey of exploration toward the Northwest, found that their stock of merchantable property was exhausted, and they created a new fund by cutting off the buttons from their clothes, and adding vials and small tin boxes to their stores. With this merchandise two men went out on a trading expedition and returned to camp laden with roots and other provisions.

Their experience recalls a certain one of my own, writes Mr. Wheeler. Late in the fall of 1876 J. H. Renshaw, now of the United States Geographical Survey, and I, with a topographic party, were slowly making our way down Meadow Valley Wash, in southeastern Nevada. Misfortune had been our constant companion, and as we reached the banks of Muddy Creek, a beautiful, clear, cold stream, one noon, we were rather a gloomy set of men. We were a month behind time, our horses were almost exhausted, all our horse feed was gone, the grazing was worthless, we were out of money, and there was no way to get more. We felt that we were in rather a serious plight.

Soon after we camped a Piute Indian appeared, and within a few minutes several more came to camp. We soon found that they had a store of barley and corn, and an exchange was quickly effected for certain surplus provisions that we had, and the poor horses had a full meal.

When the beans and sugar were exhausted, the Indians intimated that an old hat or coat would be acceptable for barter. This suggested a new line entirely, and to make a long story short, we bargained off all our old garments for shelled corn and barley, until finally we had six or eight hundred pounds of splendid grain on our wagon. Two revolvers were sold outright for precious silver dollars; and a mouth-organ, or cheap harmonica, was "great medicine," and brought splendid returns.

When we were done the Indians quietly withdrew, leaving us rich and cheerful.

At first thought, such bartering seems one-sided and inequitable, but it is not so. What was of value or interest to the Indian may have been valueless to its white owner, and vice versa. To the child a jumping-jack is a precious possession, and the Indian, who is yet in many respects, an overgrown child.

TRANSFERRING THE FLAG.

In the Battle of Lake Erie, in 1813, when Commodore Perry defeated the British and captured their entire fleet, the flagstaff Lawrence was shattered by the guns of the English, and Commodore Perry was obliged to transfer his flag to the Niagara. In "Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry," the author refers to this transfer as "the sublimest passage in the epic of Erie."

From the masthead of the helpless Lawrence the big blue burgee, the white-lettered bugle-call upon an azure field, had come fluttering down. The pennant followed, but the Stars and Stripes remained. It was not then a surrender, as the enemy had thought. What was it? The next moment furnished a reply, for out from under the lee of the battered hulk darted a small boat, propelled by oars in the hands of brawny seamen, straight for the passing Niagara. Erect in the stern stood a splendid, stalwart figure, the folds of the big blue burgee and the pennant draped over the broad shoulders, the face still calmly impassive, the eyes smoldering. Commodore Perry was transferring the flag.

Half-surrounded as it was by the enemy's ships, the boat swept on through a perfect roaring tornado, the commander, still strangely impassive, erect in the stern. Perry's young brother pleaded with the Commodore to sit down, but he seemed oblivious. Finally his oarsmen, fearful for his safety, flatly refused to row longer unless he sat down, when he complied. The men then redoubled their efforts, speeding toward the now waiting Niagara. The storm from the British guns, if possible, grew in violence; the oars were splintered by musket balls. As by a miracle, the small craft's tenants escaped unscathed.

A round shot finally came tearing through the boat's side. In a trice Perry had slipped off the epauleted coat of his rank, the garment he had donned on leaving the Lawrence's deck, and stopped the hole with it. The boat reached the side of the Niagara in safety, a quarter of an hour after leaving the Lawrence.

OLD-FASHIONED BEAR HUNT.

The other day information was brought to the Traffic Superintendent of the Mear State Railway that bears were destroying the cocoanut trees near the fourth mile on the railway at a kampong called Parit Bakar.

They climb to the top of a young tree and with their powerful claws tear away the young leaves and then proceed to devour the inside of the tree, called the cabbage.

Mr. L. went to the scene on his hand-car, armed with a Snider carbine.

A young bear suddenly dashed out close to one of the Javanese and he slashed at it with his parang. The blow enraged the bear and it "went for" the Javanese, who climbed the nearest tree. The bear proceeded to follow him up the tree. Mr. L. was taking aim at the bear when, as he thought, one of his men shook him by the shoulder. Mr. L. told his disturber to "get out."

He felt himself being pulled about rather roughly and on looking over his shoulder was astonished to see a huge bear with one big paw on each of his shoulders and its gaping mouth almost touching his neck. It was impossible to use the rifle, and Mr. L. drew his hunting knife and plunged it into the side of the bear, just under the shoulder. The blade penetrated the brute's heart, and it rolled over, endeavoring to tear out the knife. The Malays and Javanese ran up and slashed the bear until life was extinct.

In the mean time the first bear was still climbing up after the Javanese. In his terror the Javanese dropped right on top of the bear. This frightened the animal and it bolted through the scrub and was not seen again.—Singapore Straits Budget.

BOY SAVES BANK.

After fastening the doors of near-by houses by setting heavy eye-screws in the door frames and fastening the door knobs to them with ropes, eight robbers attacked the front door of the Traders' Bank, of Bridgeburg, a village on the Canadian side of the Niagara River, opposite Buffalo, with a battering ram, early on a recent morning.

Ralph C. Young, eighteen years old, was the only person in the bank. Armed with a revolver, he went to an upper window and opened fire. The thieves replied with revolvers and shotguns, some of the gang meanwhile continuing the work with the battering ram.

With his face streaming with blood from shattered glass and splinters of wood, Young kept up the fight for twenty minutes. The stout oak doors resisted all the efforts to break them down, and, alarmed by a shot fired from up the street by an aroused villager, the thieves fled.

A PIN CUSHION HINT.

If you were to take apart an old pin-cushion you would find an astonishing number of needles in it. To prevent this, when you stick a needle into the cushion, stick it in slantwise, not straight down, for if put in pin fashion it is sure to work its way into the cushion and get lost.

CARE OF THE BROOM.

Keep a painful of suds in the sink every sweeping day, and as often as the broom becomes dusty take it to the sink, dip it up and down in the pail, shake well and continue sweeping. Then, when all is swept, wash it once more before putting it away. Not only will the broom wear longer, the suds toughening the splinters, but the carpet will look brighter.

CLEAN THE OVEN.

Have the inside of the oven kept scrupulously clean. Wash the entire inside of the oven (not forgetting the roof) at least once a week. Remove the shelves and door before beginning operations, and scrape off any burnt substance with an old knife. Let the oven be kept open till quite dry and all smell of soap has passed off. A spoke brush kept for this purpose is very useful.

THE GREASY SINK.

A greasy sink is not to be tolerated, and the cleansing of it, if it be of glazed ware, may be easily accomplished with the aid of paraffin. Dip a piece of flannel in a little of the oil and then rub it over the sink. All the grease and dirt will quickly come off, and the smell of the paraffin can easily be removed by washing with soap and hot water. This treatment will have a cleansing effect on the sink pipes.

TO REPAIR A MIRROR.

To repair a damaged mirror pour upon a sheet of tinfoil about three drams of quicksilver to the square foot of foil. Rub smartly with a piece of buckskin until the foil becomes brilliant. Lay the glass upon a flat table face downward. Place the foil upon the damaged portion of the glass, lay a sheet of paper over the foil and place upon it a block of wood or a piece of marble with a perfectly flat surface; put upon it sufficient weight to press it down tightly; let it remain in this position a few hours. The foil will adhere to the glass.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

Poie de Veau a l'Anglaise—Take slices of calves' liver. Put these in a pan with a large piece of butter, pepper and salt. Mince fine a bunch of parsley and a small piece of onion together. Add these to the liver. Cook about twenty minutes. Serve immediately.

Date Jelly—Rinse a pint mould in boiling water and then in cold; put a little lemon jelly at the bottom and then arrange some halved and stoned dates in a pattern after dipping them in a jelly; pour over sufficient jelly to set the dates and then fill up the mould in layers of jelly and dates; put in a cold place until set, and, when ready, turn out into a glass dish.

Potato Flour Sponge Cake—Beat the yolks of eight eggs with one-half pound of powdered sugar for thirty minutes; add the juice and zest of one lemon; beat the whites to a stiff froth, add them to the yolks, then fold in, without sifting, one-quarter pound potato flour; bake on a rack placed about two inches from the bottom of the oven in a very light heat for forty-five to sixty minutes, depending upon the thickness of the cake.

Date or Fig Gems—Beat the yolks of two eggs and mix with one cupful of milk; sift a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder with half a cupful of white flour and mix with half a cupful of finely chopped figs or dates; add flour and fruit to the milk and eggs; stir in one cupful of whole wheat flour; beat the two whites of eggs stiff and fold into the mixture; bake in well-greased gem pans in a moderate oven on a rack midway of the oven.

Pepper Mangoes—Select firm, bull-nosed peppers, as the milder Spanish ones do not make good pickles. They must, however, be perfectly green. Cut a slice from the stem and remove all the seeds, taking care not to bruise the peppers. Put the pepper cups and covers into a stone jar and cover with a strong brine. Let them stand three days, then drain and cover with clear, cold water twenty-four hours. Put into each pepper some shredded cabbage, a tiny white onion, a small string-bean, a gherkin and three or four nasturtium seeds. Make a paste of half a cup mustard seed, a tablespoonful of grated horseradish, a tablespoonful ground mustard, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a teaspoonful each celery seed, mace and allspice. Fill the peppers with this paste, packing in firmly, then replace the caps and tie or sew in place. Pack the peppers in a stone jar and cover with scalding hot water. Let them remain in this hot water, then pour off the vinegar, reheat and again turn over the peppers. Cover close and keep in a cool, dry place

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

TO CLEAN CHAMOIS GLOVES.

Make a strong suds with white castile soap or any other kind of good white soap, and to two quarts of suds add one teaspoonful of borax dissolved in half a pint of hot water. When the suds are cold put the gloves on the hands and wash them slowly and gently, as if washing the hands, says Home Chat. Rinse in the same manner in clear water. Then draw off gently and hang in a shady place to dry, drawing them into shape when they are almost dry. When perfectly dry, rub between the hands to soften them.

DONE IN BROWN.

Very effective is a brown broadcloth redingote suit, the coat of which reaches to within four inches of the edge of the walking skirt.

The coat is lined throughout with white taffeta, and it buttons up (single breasted) with a dozen velvet buttons trimmed with silver, in the dark antique effect. It is open up the back of the skirt nearly to the waist line, and is fitted with three tabs and three buttons by which it may be fastened together.

It has hip pockets, this jaunty garment, and stitched velvet facings finish the collar and cuffs. An inlaying of white broadcloth further adorns the collar. The seams of this garment, which at the front replace the darts, are carried straight up to the shoulders, and the corresponding seams in the back of course join them exactly. This is altogether smart and tailory in effect. Philadelphia Record.

THE MORNING TOILET.

It is a fine tribute to a woman when man has heard to say: "I always think of my wife as a morning glory; she looks so bright and pretty at the breakfast table." It pays wives and mothers and sons and daughters to be care-impression is likely to be lasting; so greet every one in the morning looking fresh, sweet and attractive.

Great truth is contained in the sentiment: We make careful thought for the stranger, And have smiles for the sometimes guest; But oft for our own The careless gown.

Though we love our own the best. In this day and age there is no excuse for women appearing before their families in soiled and unattractive morning costume. Dainty materials may be had so reasonably. A little lace and ribbon leads the dainty and sheer appearance which gives the inviting touch, and apron and sleeve protectors insure cleanliness, if preparing breakfast must be taken into consideration. These may be slipped off during the meal hour, and self-respect is sustained and also the admiration of the home's dearest and best.

CARE OF CLOTHES.

Don't be careless in putting on and taking off or putting away your clothes, as much of their beauty and life depend upon their care.

After removing a dress remove all extras in the way of beauty pins, jabots, flowers, etc., that are not a part of the dress and permanently attached. Variety is not the only reason why it is best to have changes. It is real economy, as clothes need rest.

It is economy, says the Philadelphia Telegraph, to buy good clothes, but not extravagant. Care keeps good material and well-made clothing in shape; poor ones will not respond even to good care.

All clothes keep in shape better if properly folded and padded. In putting away waists the sleeves and bodice should be "stuffed" with crumpled tissue paper, and the sleeves crossed over the bodice and the wrist part turned back, with middle of front and middle of back folded and then folded back and forth (fanlike), and then folded once from top to bottom, if necessary; but it is much better if skirts can be put away full length. Never turn a skirt inside out to fold. This may be all right when hung.

Nothing else makes a dress look so untidy as spots on the goods. One of the best agents for cleaning spots is soap bark jelly. This is made by dissolving a handful of soap bark in a quart of boiling water and letting it cool.

ARRANGING OSTRICH PLUMES.

When a moderately long ostrich feather is shown as a trimming, it is more often than not attached to the crown and allowed to sweep over the back of the hat. It is so with the long feathers adorning a felt hat, the brim of which is somewhat capriciously waved in soft gentle curves. Felt and feathers are both of a deep rich purple, and also the double band of moire and satin ribbons that enriches the crown and is tied in front in a careless bow at the foot of the feather. But the different textures exhibit the colors in slightly different shades.

Quite a different arrangement is adopted for a capaline, the rim of which is turned up vertically at the back. In this case two half-long feathers are set against the upturned back of the brim and their tips curl forward over it.

The hat in question is turned smooth with peacock-blue miroir velvet, and the feathers are of the same color, fading to a somewhat pale shade at the tips. A fold of velvet encircles the crown, which is quite low and is tied in front in a cravat bow.

A third hat has three long tips arranged in a plume on one side of a high flat-topped crown. This is a felt of the new moleskin shade and the plume matches it in color. About the crown is a drapery of deep creamy satin, and there are puffed rosettes of the same underneath over the left ear and at the back.

Another hat of the same brownish drab color, but quite different in shape—the brim being narrow and flat and wider behind than in front, and the crown low—rests at the back on a cache peigne of deep peacock-blue feathers, and has, moreover, a feather of the same color attached to the side of the crown by a large button of blue Dresden china sewn down on the fold of velvet that encircles the crown.—Milinery Trade Review.

THE MANLY GIRL.

Somebody has once again discovered what is the matter with our girls. It is a restless age. So many people go to and fro in the world proclaiming what is the matter with their brothers and sisters. What great mind made this last discovery it is difficult to ascertain. But you catch echoes of the discovery reverberating in all sorts of places, and from time to time the discovery itself is shouted at you either in a drawing-room or through the philosophical columns of a ladies' paper. The discovery is, indeed, rather startling. Here it is in its simplest form: "What is the matter with our girls is, that they have too much common sense."

Dressed up in various phases you meet that statement several times a week just now. Perhaps, it is not so mad as it looks. Our girls, say their accusers, put off the gentle feminine charm of the past. There is something in this. It is no longer considered unwomanly not to faint at every opportunity. The ideal of our girls, their accusers pathetically complain, is no longer to be gentle and tender and clinging. On the contrary, the girl of to-day can give her papa several strokes and a bad temper on the links; she can hold her own with a cabman and cheat a customs official as well as most men. Our girls—their accusers, be it understood, are still speaking—no longer worship the family hearth and the homely kitchen. They would rather earn their own living, and let mamma have another servant. No longer when they see a baby do they rush to worship it. They begin to talk about hygienic diet and scientific education. Worst of all, last lurid touch in the melancholy picture, sentiment is no longer their joy. They laugh at it, alas! even more than their brothers. Thus has the glory of our girls departed. All because of too much common sense.

It is no doubt possible to have too much common sense. The gentleman who added "as at present advised" to the troth-plight, at his marriage, was suffering from an excess of this quality. There would be cause for weeping and wailing if the cult of common sense among our girls were likely to overwhelm all their emotions and turn them into capable, but uninspiring, machines. Common sense is useful, but it is not exactly the highest manifestation of the capacities of woman or man. Our girls, however, have room for plenty more common sense before they are in any danger.—London Daily Telegraph.

Cloaks for evening wear will be made in rich brocades of delicate tints, fur-lined.

Mink, sable, ermine and chinchilla are the fashionable furs, and the prices are very high.

The great vogue of the elbow sleeve promises to continue through the season, and possibly longer.

The Richelieu shoe with small gold buckles is the correct thing for evening wear at dinner or theater.

Very pale blues, pinks and cream are much in evidence and narrow velvet ribbon is used for trimmings.

For the younger people who attend dancing-school, nun's veiling, wool batiste or albatross make charming little dresses.

The popularity of the short sleeve on reception dresses has brought into prominence the wearing of bracelets once again.

White lace and mull gowns, the soft coiffures, crepes and some of the other soft radium silks continue popular and are sweetly becoming.

The muffs are enormous, and the small cravats have given way to ample stoles, peleries and shawls, shaped flat boas, with long ends.

Dancing frocks are created of sheer gauze, chiffon taffetas, sprigged chiffon taffetas, striped silks, and small checks woven over with fine flower garlands.

No prettier style can be imagined than a band of black velvet worn around the wrist which fastens by a small bow and strass buckle, says Elizabeth Steadman, in the Pilgrim.

With almost all made veils is worn a face veil of thinnest pink tulle, put on over face and hair before the hat or outer veil are donned. This gives the complexion a becoming rose tint and enables one to wear almost any color of veil.

BURTON PEEKS INTO THE SENATE TO DRAW MILEAGE

Washington, Jan. 24.—One of the most remarkable precedents in the history of the senate occurred yesterday in order to avoid a technicality which prevented Senator Burton of Kansas from drawing his mileage for the present session. In order to have his requisition honored it is necessary for some official of the senate to take oath that he had seen the senator in the chamber, but since the indictment and conviction of the Kansas senator he has not appeared in the chamber. There is no disposition on the part of anyone to withhold the mileage and the senator therefore was expected to step from the cloak room into the chamber for a moment in order that he might be seen by some official. He declined, but an employed engaged him in conversation in the cloak room near the entrance to the chamber. The employe suddenly turned the senator so that he faced the chamber, and the attention of the officials previously having been directed toward the door, he was seen from the chamber. It was then certified that Senator Burton was in attendance and his mileage was paid him.

STEAMER WRECKED AND ONE HUNDRED DROWNED

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Cape Beale says the Valencia, a steamer of San Francisco, went ashore on the Vancouver Island coast near Cloose and was lost. The lighthouse keeper says one hundred were drowned.

The news of the disaster on the Vancouver Island coast is meager, being confined to the message received by Capt. Gaudin, agent of the Marine, from Lighthouse Keeper Patterson at Cape Beale, saying:

here and Cloose, about 100 drowned. Nine reached telegraph hut. Wire more particulars as soon as possible. Cloose is about five or six miles from Carmanah Point and 65 miles from Victoria. Capt. Beale is 120 miles from Victoria at the easterly entrance to Barkley Sound. There are still about 125 persons on the ship, with almost certain death staring them in the face. The steamer Queen left here at 8 p. m. for the wreck.

Williams Murder Trial.

The local office of U. S. Marshal is in receipt of a large batch of subpoenas in the James R. Williams murder case, set for trial Feb. 12. Williams is accused of killing Lively at Francis One trial at Ada resulted in a hung jury, whereupon the case was transferred to Pauls Valley. Court convenes there Jan. 29 but witnesses will save time and expense by taking notice that they are not wanted till Feb. 12. The same may be said concerning the Ord Rich rape case, which is set for the same date.

Railroad Rate Bill

Washington, Jan. 24.—The Republicans and Democrats of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce have agreed upon a bill for railroad rate control.

Cotton Still Declining.

The cotton market continued to go down today. N. Y. March futures opened at 11 3/8, reached 11 45 and closed at 11 3/8. N. Y. spots fell off 10 points closing at 11:30. Today cotton is lower than at any time since last October.

SOCIETY ALL AFLUTTER OVER WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

Washington, Jan. 24.—Many a Washington society woman would like very much to know if she will be one of the fifteen hundred. Those numbers represent the number of invitations that will be issued to the wedding of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth. Several ambitious women in Washington are prepared to take flight just as soon as they know definitely that they are not included in the list. Some matrons already are negotiating with Florida hotel keepers. No woman with social pretensions will care to acknowledge that she did not get a card to the wedding. Of course if she is ill and has to go to Florida on her physician's advice her status will be saved. The marriage ceremony will not last more than twenty minutes. There will be full choral service and the boys' choir of St. Johns' will sing the processional. Among the selections will be: "Be thou Faithful Unto Death" from "Elijah" and "Tis Our Wedding Morn" by Poniatowski.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the clergyman and the especially invited guests will go to the state dining room where the health of the young couple will be pledged and the bride will cut the wedding cake.

A substantial breakfast is planned, but everything will have to be served from the buffet. To seat 500 guests is impossible. The bridal couple will receive congratulations in the Blue room. This will give the guests more room. The reception will last until 2 o'clock and Mr. Longworth and his bride hope to leave Washington about 4. Their destination is still a secret, although it is rumored that Georgia and Florida are being discussed.

MR. RUSSELL TALKS OF FARMERS' UNION AFFAIRS

Warner, I. T., Jan. 24.—Early in last week a meeting was called and held at South McAlester for the purpose of forming a union of the farmers in Indian Territory, separate from that of Oklahoma. Campbell Russell of Hereford says that the matter was first submitted to a referendum vote of the two territories and that of those reporting—about 2,900 against and 2,100 for—came from Oklahoma, where there was a divided vote and many unions reporting against with unanimous vote, while in the Indian Territory the vote was even greater, in opposition to a separate state union. He declares that he is opposed, as others are, to action at this time, as no matter which way the action results it will be counted as a political move. There were but twenty-three accredited delegates in the convention as organized, he says, and he expects no further work in the movement. Mr. Russell declares that the farmers in the territories are getting together on the cash basis and the Farmers' Union Bank proposition. He is showing a contrast cartoon, a half page affair, a lead pencil sketch in the Indianoman, drawn by Charles Windes, a 15-year old boy, showing the mortgage conditions and the improvement under the Farmers' Union movement. "Whatever comes," Mr. Russell said, "we must be united, and we must work in common and you can bet on it that we will if it is possible, and I hope to see that it is."

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

Prickly Ash Bitters

A Remedy that Has Proved Its Value For Kidney, Liver and Bowel Disorders in a Brilliant Record of Cures Performed.

It is the right medicine for such purpose, the greatest; the most successful system cleanser and regulator. It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently urge the vital organs to a better and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

Some dealers will try to sell you something which they say is just as good as PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. DON'T TAKE IT. Get the genuine with the large figure 3 in red on the front label. It will give you the results you desire. Put up in 19 ounce bottles. Price, 1.00

Sold by all Druggists.

SICK HALF THE TIME.

In diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs men and women once strong, hearty and vigorous are soon reduced to comparative helplessness, at times they are able to get about and do odd jobs, at others prostrated completely. This was the experience of thousands of persons who owe their present good health to the great healing effect of PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Why endure all this distress when a remedy that has proved its power and effectiveness in such ailments can be so easily obtained. PRICKLY ASH BITTERS is a kidney tonic, liver and stomach stimulant and bowel purifier combined, therefore it exercises its cleansing and restorative influence uniformly in every part of the body. For the weakening irregularities peculiar to women PRICKLY ASH BITTERS has obtained the very highest endorsement. It corrects stomach and bowel disorders in children.

THE RELATIVE VS THE ROUGH RIDER.

Runs now the rumor that Roosevelt will give Ben Colbert's job to a kinsman, of Muskogee. In connection it is explained that the President has weakened somewhat on his Rough Rider comrades. Well, it can not be disputed that blood is thicker than smoke.

Yet the President runs the risk of caustic criticism. He should be mindful that there exists an odious word frequently used to designate the political care of the kinsman. This word is a sweet morsel upon the tongue of the politician and the paragrapher. It is spelled, nepotism. While the News is not disposed to lay great stress upon the incident and try to arouse the wrath of the people, still there be those who will take delight in magnifying the matter and shouting another note of alarm. These will point out that there are already many sore spots in the two territories resulting from carpet-bag appointments. They will paint a fearful picture of the wrongs of nepotism piling up on carpet-bagism like Ossa on Pelion.

THE newest arrival in the Indian Territory field of journalism is the State Sentinel, which made its debut at Stigler on the 19th. It is published by the Eureka Publishing Co. and edited by C. D. Milam. The initial number is very creditable to the proprietors and to the town.

Both Sides Are Determined.

Washington, Jan. 24. On the eve of the battle over the statehood bill thirty-four republican insurgents held a caucus yesterday in Representative Babcock's committee room and outlined their fight against the Hamilton bill. This is the largest number of republican members that has been at any anti joint statehood meeting and Mr. Babcock, Mr. Mondell and other leaders of the fight against the Hamilton bill, say it shows that their strength is increasing as the fight approaches. The insurgent leaders now claim sixty republican votes against the proposed rule to prevent amending the Hamilton bill, and say there is no truth in the rumor that democrats are leaving the city and have been induced to remain away so they cannot vote with the democratic organization, which is in harmony with the republican insurgents and wants to prevent the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as one state.

Democrats who are out of the city are being summoned by Representative Williams, leader of the minority, to return in time to oppose the anti-amendment rule. Although the democrats had no statehood caucus, their position has been plainly outlined by Mr. Williams and the democratic members on the Territories Committee made a minority report so strongly in opposition to the Hamilton bill that no Democratic member is expected to desert his party stand on this issue providing he is in the House when a vote is taken.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

THIS strictly commercial business of shark hunting is done in small sloops, whose headquarters are in the more northerly Norwegian ports. The crews are for the most part made up of pure-blooded descendants of the Vikings, who are still to be found in any number among the cod-fishers of Hammerfest and Tromsø. And a magnificent race of men they are! Accustomed from boyhood to a life of hardship, they have a way of treating Father Neptune with a slightly contemptuous toleration, like an old friend of somewhat uncertain temper, whose rapid changes from smiling benevolence to wild, blustering anger are on the whole rather amusing than otherwise.

They care nothing for danger, and little for suffering—in themselves or in others. Why, then, should they stop to think that perhaps a maimed, but still living, shark can feel?

The fishing is done off the coast of Iceland in about eighty fathoms of water. Three or four gallow-like structures are rigged up around the sides of the sloop, and from each of these hangs a pulley-block, over which runs a strong rope; and to the end of this the baited hook is fastened. A plentiful supply of ground-bait is thrown out to attract the quarry, and such is the eagerness with which the sharks take the bait, that sometimes each one of these gallow-like fishing rods will have its fish hooked and fighting for life, all at the same time.

There is no "playing" the fish; it is not necessary or possible, and the powerful tackle is hardly likely to break, no matter how fiercely the hooked shark may struggle. But the shark is not, for his size, a game fish; and, except when he is actually being hoisted up out of the water, there is no very serious strain on the tackle. If he does now and then get away, it is not because he ever manages to break the line, but because a lightly fixed hook easily tears through the soft cartilaginous skeleton of his head, and so sets him free.

As soon as a shark has taken one of the baits, the hauling tackle attached to his particular gallow is manned, and without any superfluous fuss or ceremony he is hauled up to the sloop, and hoisted just clear of the water.

He is not brought on board at all, but with a few bold slashes his liver is cut out as he hangs, and is thrown into a tub, to be further dealt with later. Then his eyes are put out, and he is cut adrift—to go and complete the tardy process of dying where and how he pleases.

All this sounds very horrible; but there is one curious fact which goes far to make us believe that this death cannot, after all, be such a cruel one as at first appears. It is this: the fishermen say that, unless they put out the shark's eyes, he will afterward cause them a lot of trouble, by coming and taking the bait a second time.

It sounds incredible; but the statement is thoroughly well authenticated by eye-witnesses, who have seen a liverless shark do just this very thing. Scientists, doubtless, are right in saying that the shark (which by anatomical classification is one of the lowest of fishes) does not feel pain in the way more highly organized animals feel it. We will cling to that belief; for it is consoling to us, if not to the shark, who is thus sacrificed that his liver may supply us with—what?

It is a secret not to be spoken aloud. Norway is one of the great centres of the cod trade, and from cod is made cod-liver oil, and—shark-liver oil tastes and looks exactly like it.—Pearson's Magazine.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

Indian nature was about the same in 1876 as it was in 1894, says the author of "The Trail of Lewis and Clark." In illustration of this he tells of a time when Lewis and Clark, on their journey of exploration toward the Northwest, found that their stock of merchantable property was exhausted, and they created a new fund by cutting off the buttons from their clothes, and adding vials and small tin boxes to their stores. With this merchandise two men went out on a trading expedition and returned to camp laden with roots and other provisions.

Their experience recalls a certain one of my own, writes Mr. Wheeler. Late in the fall of 1876 J. H. Renshaw, now of the United States Geographical Survey, and I, with a topographic party, were slowly making our way down Meadow Valley Wash, in southeastern Nevada. Misfortune had been our constant companion, and as we reached the banks of Muddy Creek, a beautiful, clear, cold stream, one noon, we were rather a gloomy set of men. We were a month behind time, our horses were almost exhausted, all our horse feed was gone, the grazing was worthless, we were out of money, and there was no way to get more. We felt that we were in rather a serious plight.

Soon after we camped a Plute Indian appeared, and within a few minutes several more came to camp. We soon found that they had a store of barley and corn, and an exchange was quickly effected for certain surplus provisions that we had, and the poor horses had a full meal.

A PIN CUSHION HINT.

If you were to take apart an old pin-cushion you would find an astonishing number of needles in it. To prevent this, when you stick a needle into the cushion, stick it in slantwise, not straight down, for if put in pin fashion it is sure to work its way into the cushion and get lost.

CARE OF THE BROOM.

Keep a painful of suds in the sink every sweeping day, and as often as the broom becomes dusty take it to the sink, dip it up and down in the pail, shake well and continue sweeping. Then, when all is swept, wash it once more before putting it away. Not only will the broom wear longer, the suds toughening the splinters, but the carpet will look brighter.

CLEAN THE OVEN.

Have the inside of the oven kept scrupulously clean. Wash the entire inside of the oven (not forgetting the roof) at least once a week. Remove the shelves and door before beginning operations, and scrape off any burnt substance with an old knife. Let the oven be kept open till quite dry and all smell of soap has passed off. A spoke brush kept for this purpose is very useful.

THE GREASY SINK.

A greasy sink is not to be tolerated, and the cleansing of it, if it be of glazed ware, may be easily accomplished with the aid of paraffin. Dip a piece of flannel in a little of the oil and then rub it over the sink. All the grease and dirt will quickly come off, and the smell of the paraffin can easily be removed by washing with soap and hot water. This treatment will have a cleansing effect on the sink pipes.

TO REPAIR A MIRROR.

To repair a damaged mirror pour upon a sheet of tinfoil about three drams of quicksilver to the square foot of foil. Rub smartly with a piece of buckskin until the foil becomes brilliant. Lay the glass upon a flat table face downward. Place the foil upon the damaged portion of the glass, lay a sheet of paper over the foil and place upon it a block of wood or a piece of marble with a perfectly flat surface; put upon it sufficient weight to press it down tightly; let it remain in this position a few hours. The foil will adhere to the glass.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Foie de Veau à l'Anglaise.—Take slices of calves' liver. Put these in a pan with a large piece of butter, pepper and salt. Mince fine a bunch of parsley and a small piece of onion together. Add these to the liver. Cook about twenty minutes. Serve immediately.

Date Jelly.—Rinse a pint mould in boiling water and then in cold; put a little lemon jelly at the bottom and then arrange some halved and stoned dates in a pattern after dipping them in a jelly; pour over sufficient jelly to set the dates and then fill up the mould in layers of jelly and dates; put in a cold place until set, and, when ready, turn out into a glass dish.

Potato Flour Sponge Cake.—Beat the yolks of eight eggs with one-half pound of powdered sugar for thirty minutes; add the juice and zest of one lemon; beat the whites to a stiff froth, add them to the yolks, then fold in, without sifting, one-quarter pound potato flour; bake on a rack placed about two inches from the bottom of the oven in a very light heat for forty-five to sixty minutes, depending upon the thickness of the cake.

Date or Fig Gems.—Beat the yolks of two eggs and mix with one cupful of milk; sift a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder with half a cupful of white flour and mix with half a cupful of finely chopped figs or dates; add flour and fruit to the milk and eggs; stir in one cupful of whole wheat flour; beat the two whites of eggs stiff and fold into the mixture; bake in well-greased gem pans in a moderate oven on a rack midway of the oven.

Pepper Mangoes.—Select firm, bull-nosed peppers, as the milder Spanish ones do not make good pickles. They must, however, be perfectly green. Cut a slice from the stem and remove all the seeds, taking care not to bruise the peppers. Put the pepper cups and covers into a stone jar and cover with a strong brine. Let them stand three days, then drain and cover with clear, cold water twenty-four hours. Put into each pepper some shredded cabbage, a tiny white onion, a small string-bean, a gherkin and three or four nasturtium seeds. Make a paste of half a cup mustard seed, a tablespoonful of grated horseradish, a tablespoonful ground mustard, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a teaspoonful each celery seed, mace and allspice. Fill the peppers with this paste, packing in firmly, then replace the caps and tie or sew in place. Pack the peppers in a stone jar and cover with scalding hot water. Let them remain in this two days, then pour off the vinegar, reheat and again turn over the peppers. Cover close and keep in a cool, dry place.

"I understand, old man," rejoined the poor baby, indolently.—Life.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

TO CLEAN CHAMOIS GLOVES.

Make a strong suds with white castile soap or any other kind of good white soap, and to two quarts of suds add one teaspoonful of borax dissolved in half a pint of hot water. When the suds are cold put the gloves on the hands and wash them slowly and gently, as if washing the hands, says Home Chat. Rinse in the same manner in clear water. Then draw off gently and hang in a shady place to dry, drawing them into shape when they are almost dry. When perfectly dry, rub between the hands to soften them.

DONE IN BROWN.

Very effective is a brown broadcloth redingote suit, the coat of which reaches to within four inches of the edge of the walking skirt.

The coat is lined throughout with white taffeta, and it buttons up (single breasted) with a dozen velvet buttons trimmed with silver, in the dark antique effect. It is open up the back of the skirt nearly to the waist line, and is fitted with three tabs and three buttons by which it may be fastened together.

It has hip pockets, this jaunty garment, and stitched velvet facings finish the collar and cuffs. An inlaying of white broadcloth further adorns the collar. The seams of this garment, which at the front replace the darts, are carried straight up to the shoulders, and the corresponding seams in the back of course join them exactly. This is altogether smart and tailored in effect. Philadelphia Record.

THE MORNING TOILET.

It is a fine tribute to a woman when man was heard to say: "I always think of my wife as a morning glory; she looks so bright and pretty at the breakfast table." It pays wives and mothers and sons and daughters to be care-impression is likely to be lasting; so greet every one in the morning looking fresh, sweet and attractive.

Great truth is contained in the sentiment: We make careful thought for the stranger, And have smiles for the sometimes guest; But oft for our own The careless gown.

Though we love our own the best. In this day and age there is no excuse for women appearing before their families in soiled and unattractive morning costume. Dainty materials may be had so reasonably. A little lace and ribbon leads the dainty and sheer appearance which gives the inviting touch, and apron and sleeve protectors insure cleanliness, if preparing breakfast must be taken into consideration. These may be slipped off during the meal hour, and self-respect is sustained and also the admiration of the home's dearest and best.

CARE OF CLOTHES.

Don't be careless in putting on and taking off or putting away your clothes, as much of their beauty and life depend upon their care.

After removing a dress remove all extras in the way of beauty pins, jabots, flowers, etc., that are not a part of the dress and permanently attached. Variety is not the only reason why it is best to have changes. It is real economy, as clothes need rest.

It is economy, says the Philadelphia Telegraph, to buy good clothes, but not extravagant. Care keeps good material and well-made clothing in shape; poor ones will not respond even to good care.

All clothes keep in shape better if properly folded and padded. In putting away waists the sleeves and bodice should be "stuffed" with crumpled tissue paper, and the sleeves crossed over the bodice and the wrist part turned back, with middle of front and middle of back folded and then folded back and forth (fanlike), and then folded once from top to bottom, if necessary; but it is much better if skirts can be put away full length. Never turn a skirt inside out to fold. This may be all right when hung.

Nothing else makes a dress look so untidy as spots on the goods. One of the best agents for cleaning spots is soap bark jelly. This is made by dissolving a handful of soap bark in a quart of boiling water and letting it cool.

ARRANGING OSTRICH PLUMES.

When a moderately long ostrich feather is shown as a trimming, it is more often than not attached to the crown and allowed to sweep over the back of the hat. It is so with the long feathers adorning a felt hat, the brim of which is somewhat capriciously waved in soft curve curves. Felt and feathers are both of a deep rich purple, and also the double band of moire and satin ribbons that enriches the crown and is tied in front in a careless bow at the foot of the feather. But the different textures exhibit the colors in slightly different shades.

Quite a different arrangement is adopted for a capeline, the rim of which is turned up vertically at the back. In this case two half-long feathers are set against the upturned back of the brim and their tips curl forward over it.

The hat in question is turned smooth with peacock-blue miroir velvet, and the feathers are of the same color, fading to a somewhat pale shade at the tips. A fol of velvet encircles the crown, which is quite low and is tied in front in a cravat bow.

A third hat has three long tips arranged in a plume on one side of a high flat-topped crown. This is a felt of the new moleskin shade and the plume matches it in color. About the crown is a drapery of deep creamy satin, and there are puffed rosettes of the same underneath over the left ear and at the back.

Another hat of the same brownish drab color, but quite different in shape—the brim being narrow and flat and wider behind than in front, and the crown low—rests at the back on a cache peline of deep peacock-blue feathers, and has, moreover, a feather of the same color attached to the side of the crown by a large button of blue Dresden china sewn down on the fold of velvet that encircles the crown.—Milinery Trade Review.

THE MANLY GIRL.

Somebody has once again discovered what is the matter with our girls. It is a restless age. So many people go to and fro in the world proclaiming what is the matter with their brothers and sisters. What great mind made this last discovery it is difficult to ascertain. But you catch echoes of the discovery reverberating in all sorts of places, and from time to time the discovery itself is shouted at you either in a drawing-room or through the philosophical columns of a ladies' paper. The discovery is, indeed, rather startling. Here it is in its simplest form: "What is the matter with our girls, that they have too much common sense."

Dressed up in various phases you meet that statement several times a week just now. Perhaps, it is not so mad as it looks. Our girls, say their accusers, put off the gentle feminine charm of the past. There is something in this. It is no longer considered unwomanly not to faint at every opportunity. The ideal of our girls, their accusers pathetically complain, is no longer to be gentle and tender and clinging. On the contrary, the girl of today can give her papa several strokes and a bad temper on the links; she can hold her own with a cabman and cheat a customs official as well as most men. Our girls—our accusers, be it understood, are still speaking—no longer worship the family hearth and the homely kitchen. They would rather earn their own living, and let mamma have another servant. No longer when they see a baby do they rush to worship it. They begin to talk about hygienic diet and scientific education. Worst of all, last lurid touch in the melancholy picture, sentiment is no longer their joy. They laugh at it, alas! even more than their brothers. Thus has the glory of our girls departed. All because of too much common sense.

It is no doubt possible to have too much common sense. The gentleman who added "as at present advised" to the troth-plight, at his marriage, was suffering from an excess of this quality. There would be cause for weeping and wailing if the cult of common sense among our girls were likely to overwhelm all their emotions and turn them into capable, but uninspiring, machines. Common sense is useful, but it is not exactly the highest manifestation of the capacities of woman or man. Our girls, however, have room for plenty more common sense before they are in any danger.—London Daily Telegraph.

PRETTY THINGS TO WEAR.

Cloaks for evening wear will be made in rich brocades of delicate tints, fur-lined.

Mink, sable, ermine and chinchilla are the fashionable furs, and the prices are very high.

The great vogue of the elbow sleeve promises to continue through the season, and possibly longer.

The Richelieu shoe with small gold buckles is the correct thing for evening wear at dinner or theater.

Very pale blues, pinks and cream are much in evidence and narrow velvet ribbon is used for trimmings.

For the younger people who attend dancing-school, nut-a veiling, wool batiste or albatross make charming little dresses.

The popularity of the short sleeve on reception dresses has brought into prominence the wearing of bracelets once again.

White lace and mull gowns, the soft collanques, crepes and some of the other soft radium silks continue popular and are sweetly becoming.

The muffs are enormous, and the small cravats have given way to ample stoles, peleries and shawls, shaped flat bows, with long ends.

Dancing frocks are created of sheer gauze, chiffon taffetas, sprigged chiffon taffetas, striped silks, and small checks woven over with fine flower garlands.

No prettier style can be imagined than a band of black velvet worn around the wrist which fastens by a small bow and strass buckle, says Elizabeth Steadman, in the Pilgrim.

With almost all made veils is worn a face veil of thinnest pink tulle, put on over face and hair before the hat or outer veil are donned. This gives the complexion a becoming rose tint and enables one to wear almost any color of veil.

BURTON PEEKS INTO THE SENATE TO DRAW MILEAGE

Washington, Jan. 24.—One of the most remarkable proceedings in the history of the senate occurred yesterday in order to avoid a technicality which prevented Senator Burton of Kansas from drawing his mileage for the present session. In order to have his requisition honored it is necessary for some official of the senate to take oath that he had seen the senator in the chamber, but since the indictment and conviction of the Kansas senator he has not appeared in the chamber. There is no disposition on the part of anyone to withhold the mileage and the senator therefore was expected to step from the cloak room into the chamber for a moment in order that he might be seen by some official. He declined, but an employed engaged him in conversation in the cloak room near the entrance to the chamber. The employee suddenly turned the senator so that he faced the chamber, and the attention of the officials previously having been directed toward the door, he was seen from the chamber. It was then certified that Senator Burton was in attendance and his mileage was paid him.

STEAMER WRECKED AND ONE HUNDRED DROWNED

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Cape Beale says the Valencia, a steamer of San Francisco, went ashore on the Vancouver Island coast near Cloose and was lost. The lighthouse keeper says one hundred were drowned.

The news of the disaster on the Vancouver Island coast is meager, being confined to the message received by Capt. Gaudin, agent of the Marine, from Lighthouse Keeper Patterson at Cape Beale, saying:

here and Cloose, about 100 drowned. Nine reached telegraph hut. Wire more particulars as soon as possible."

Cloose is about five or six miles from Carmanah Point and 65 miles from Victoria.

Capt. Beale is 120 miles from Victoria at the easterly entrance to Barkley Sound.

SOCIETY ALL AFLUTTER OVER WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

Washington, Jan. 24.—Many a Washington society woman would like very much to know if she will be one of the fifteen hundred. Those numbers represent the number of invitations that will be issued to the wedding of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth.

Several ambitious women in Washington are prepared to take flight just as soon as they know definitely that they are not included in the list. Some matrons already are negotiating with Florida hotel keepers. No woman with social pretensions will care to acknowledge that she did not get a card to the wedding. Of course if she is ill and has to go to Florida on her physician's advice her status will be saved. The marriage ceremony will not last more than twenty minutes. There will be full choral service and the boys' choir of St. John's will sing the processional. Among the selections will be: "Be thou Faithful Unto Death" from "Elijah" and "Tis Our Wedding Morn" by Poniatowski.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, the clergyman and the especially invited guests will go to the state dining room where the health of the young couple will be pledged and the bride will cut the wedding cake.

A substantial breakfast is planned, but everything will have to be served from the buffet. To seat 500 guests is impossible. The bridal couple will receive congratulations in the Blue room. This will give the guests more room. The reception will last until 2 o'clock and Mr. Longworth and his bride hope to leave Washington about 4. Their destination is still a secret, although it is rumored that Georgia and Florida are being discussed.

MR. RUSSELL TALKS OF FARMERS' UNION AFFAIRS

Warner, I. T., Jan. 24.—Early in last week a meeting was called and held at South McAlester for the purpose of forming a union of the farmers in Indian Territory, separate from that of Oklahoma. Campbell Russell of Hereford says that the matter was first submitted to a referendum vote of the two territories and that of those reporting—about 2,900 against and 2,100 for—came from Oklahoma, where there was a divided vote and many unions reporting against with unanimous vote, while in the Indian Territory the vote was even greater, in opposition to a separate state union. He declares that he is opposed, as others are, to action at this time, as no matter which way the action results it will be counted as a political move. There were but twenty-three accredited delegates in the convention as organized, he says, and he expects no further work in the movement.

Mr. Russell declares that the farmers in the territories are getting together on the cash basis and the Farmers' Union Bank proposition. He is showing a contrast cartoon, a half page affair, a lead pencil sketch in the Indian, drawn by Charles Windes, a 15-year old boy, showing the mortgage conditions and the improvement under the Farmers' Union movement.

"Whatever comes," Mr. Russell said, "we must be united, and we must work in common and you can bet on it that we will if it is possible, and I hope to see that it is."

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently and thoroughly cleanse the system and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

Some dealers will try to sell you something which they say is just as good as PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. DON'T TAKE IT. Get the genuine with the large figure 3 in red on the front label. It will give you the results you desire. Put up in 19 ounce bottles. Price, 1.00

Sold by all Druggists.

SICK HALF THE TIME.

In diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs men and women once strong, hearty and vigorous are soon reduced to comparative helplessness, at times they are able to get about and do odd jobs, at others, prostrated completely. This was the experience of thousands of persons who owe their present good health to the great healing effect of PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Why endure all this distress when a remedy that has proved its power and effectiveness in such ailments can be so easily obtained. PRICKLY ASH BITTERS is a kidney tonic, liver and stomach stimulant and bowel purifier combined, therefore it exercises its cleansing and restorative influence uniformly in every part of the body. For the weakening irregularities peculiar to women PRICKLY ASH BITTERS has obtained the very highest endorsement. It corrects stomach and bowel disorders in children.

THE RELATIVE VS THE ROUGH RIDER.

Runs now the rumor that Roosevelt will give Ben Colbert's job to a kinsman, of Muskogee. In connection it is explained that the President has weakened somewhat on his Rough Rider comrades. Well, it can not be disputed that blood is thicker than smoke.

Yet the President runs the risk of caustic criticism. He should be mindful that there exists an odious word frequently used to designate the political cure of the kinsman. This word is a sweet morsel upon the tongue of the politician and the paragrapher. It is spelled, nepotism. While the News is not disposed to lay great stress upon the incident and try to arouse the wrath of the people, still there be those who will take delight in magnifying the matter and shouting another note of alarm. These will point out that there are already many sore spots in the two territories resulting from carpe, bag appointments. They will paint a fearful picture of the wrongs of nepotism piling up on carpet-bagism like Ossa on Pellon.

THE newest arrival in the Indian Territory field of journalism is the State Sentinel, which made its debut at Stigler on the 19th. It is published by the Eureka Publishing Co and edited by C. D. Milam. The initial number is very creditable to the proprietors and to the town.

Both Sides Are Determined

Washington, Jan. 24. On the eve of the battle over the statehood bill thirty-four republican insurgents held a caucus yesterday in Representative Babcock's committee room and outlined their fight against the Hamilton bill. This is the largest number of republican members that has been at any anti joint statehood meeting and Mr. Babcock, Mr. Mondell and other leaders of the fight against the Hamilton bill, say it shows that their strength is increasing as the fight approaches. The insurgent leaders now claim sixty republican votes against the proposed rule to prevent amending the Hamilton bill, and say there is no truth in the rumor that democrats are leaving the city and have been induced to remain away so they cannot vote with the democratic organization, which is in harmony with the republican insurgents and wants to prevent the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as one state.

Democrats who are out of the city are being summoned by Representative Williams, leader of the minority, to return in time to oppose the anti amendment rule. Although the democrats had no statehood caucus, their position has been plainly outlined by Mr. Williams and the democratic members on the Territories Committee made a minority report so strongly in opposition to the Hamilton bill that no Democratic member is expected to desert his party stand on this issue providing he is in the House when a vote is taken.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

THIS strictly commercial business of shark hunting is done in small sloops, whose headquarters are in the more northerly Norwegian ports. The crews are for the most part made up of pure-blooded descendants of the Vikings, who are still to be found in any number among the cod-fishers of Hammerfest and Tromsø. And a magnificent race of men they are! Accustomed from boyhood to a life of hardship, they have a way of treating Father Neptune with a slightly contemptuous toleration, like an old friend of somewhat uncertain temper, whose rapid changes from smiling benevolence to wild, blustering anger are on the whole rather amusing than otherwise.

They care nothing for danger, and little for suffering—in themselves or in others. Why, then, should they stop to think that perhaps a maimed, but still living, shark can feel?

The fishing is done off the coast of Iceland in about eighty fathoms of water. Three or four gallow-like structures are rigged up around the sides of the sloop, and from each of these hangs a pulley-block, over which runs a strong rope; and to the end of this the baited hook is fastened. A plentiful supply of ground-bait is thrown out to attract the quarry, and such is the eagerness with which the sharks take the bait, that sometimes each one of these gallow-like fishing rods will have its fish hooked and fighting for life all at the same time.

There is no "playing" the fish; it is not necessary or possible, and the powerful tackle is hardly likely to break, no matter how fiercely the hooked shark may struggle. But the shark is not, for his size, a game fish; and, except when he is actually being hoisted up out of the water, there is no very serious strain on the tackle. If he does now and then get away, it is not because he ever manages to break the line, but because a lightly fixed hook easily tears through the soft cartilaginous skeleton of his head, and so sets him free.

As soon as a shark has taken one of the baits, the hauling tackle attached to his particular gallow is manned, and without any superfluous fuss or ceremony he is hauled up to the sloop, and hoisted just clear of the water.

He is not brought on board at all, but with a few bold slashes his liver is cut out as he hangs, and is thrown into a tub, to be further dealt with later. Then his eyes are put out, and he is cut adrift—to go and complete the tardy process of dying where and how he pleases.

All this sounds very horrible; but there is one curious fact which goes far to make us believe that this death cannot, after all, be such a cruel one as at first appears. It is this: the fishermen say that, unless they put out the shark's eyes, he will afterwards cause them a lot of trouble, by coming and taking the bait a second time.

It sounds incredible; but the statement is thoroughly well authenticated by eye-witnesses, who have seen a liverless shark do just this very thing. Scientists, doubtless, are right in saying that the shark (which by anatomical classification is one of the lowest of fishes) does not feel pain in the way more highly organized animals feel it. We will cling to that belief; for it is consoling—to us, if not to the shark, who is thus sacrificed that his liver may supply us with—what?

It is a secret not to be spoken aloud. Norway is one of the great centres of the cod trade, and from cod is made cod-liver oil, and shark-liver oil tastes and looks exactly like it.—Pearson's Magazine.

FAIR EXCHANGE.

Indian nature was about the same in 1876 as it was in 1894, says the author of "The Trail of Lewis and Clark." In illustration of this he tells of a time when Lewis and Clark, on their journey of exploration toward the Northwest, found that their stock of merchantable property was exhausted, and they created a new fund by cutting off the buttons from their clothes, and adding vials and small tin boxes to their stores. With this merchandise two men went out on a trading expedition and returned to camp laden with roots and other provisions.

Their experience recalls a certain one of my own, writes Mr. Wheeler. Late in the fall of 1870 J. H. Renshaw, now of the United States Geographical Survey, and I, with a topographic party, were slowly making our way down Meadow Valley Wash, in southeastern Nevada. Misfortune had been our constant companion, and as we reached the banks of Muddy Creek, a beautiful, clear, cold stream, one noon, we were rather a gloomy set of men. We were a month behind time, our horses were almost exhausted, all our horse feed was gone, the grazing was worthless, we were out of money, and there was no way to get more. We felt that we were in rather a serious plight.

Soon after we camped a Plute Indian appeared, and within a few minutes several more came to camp. We soon found that they had a store of barley and corn, and an exchange was quickly effected for certain surplus provisions that we had, and the poor horses had a full meal.

When the beans and sugar were exhausted, the Indians intimated that an old hat or coat would be acceptable for barter. This suggested a new line entirely, and to make a long story short, we bargained off all our old garments for shelled corn and barley, until finally we had six or eight hundred pounds of splendid grain on our wagon. Two revolvers were sold outright for precious silver dollar; and a mouth-organ, or cheap harmonica, was "great medicine," and brought splendid returns.

When we were done the Indians quietly withdrew, leaving us rich and cheerful.

At first thought, such bartering seems one-sided and inequitable, but it is not so. What was of value or interest to the Indian may have been valueless to its white owner, and vice versa. To the child a jumping-jack is a precious possession, and the Indian yas, and is yet in many respects, an overgrown child.

TRANSFERRING THE FLAG.

In the Battle of Lake Erie, in 1813, when Commodore Perry defeated the British and captured their entire fleet, the flagship Lawrence was shattered by the guns of the English, and Commodore Perry was obliged to transfer his flag to the Niagara. In "Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry," the author refers to this transfer as "the sublimest passage in the epic of Erie."

From the masthead of the helpless Lawrence the big blue burgee, the white-lettered bugle-call upon an azure field, had come fluttering down. The pennant followed, but the Stars and Stripes remained. It was not then a surrender, as the enemy had thought. What was it? The next moment furnished a reply, for out from under the lee of the battered hull darted a small boat, propelled by oars in the hands of brawny seamen, straight for the passing Niagara. Erect in the stern stood a splendid, stalwart figure, the folds of the big blue burgee and the pennant draped over the broad shoulders, the face still calmly impassive, the eyes smouldering, Commodore Perry was transferring the flag.

Half-surrounded as it was by the enemy's ships, the boat swept on through a perfect roaring tornado, the commander, still strangely impassive, erect in the stern. Perry's young brother pleaded with the Commodore to sit down, but he seemed oblivious. Finally his oarsmen, fearful for his safety, flatly refused to row longer unless he sat down, when he complied. The men then redoubled their efforts, speeding toward the now waiting Niagara. The storm from the British guns, if possible, grew in violence; the oars were splintered by musket balls. As by a miracle, the small craft's tenants escaped unscathed.

A round shot finally came tearing through the boat's side. In a trice Perry had slipped off the capulated coat of his rank, the garment he had donned on leaving the Lawrence's deck, and stopped the hole with it. The boat reached the side of the Niagara in safety, a quarter of an hour after leaving the Lawrence.

OLD-FASHIONED BEAR HUNT.

The other day information was brought to the Traffic Superintendent of the Mount State Railway that bears were destroying the coconut trees near the fourth mile on the railway at a kampong called Parti Bakar.

They climb to the top of a young tree and with their powerful claws tear away the young leaves and then proceed to devour the inside of the tree, called the cabbage.

Mr. L. went to the scene on his hand-car, armed with a Snider carbine.

A young bear suddenly dashed out close to one of the Javanese and he slashed at it with his parang. The blow enraged the bear and it "went for" the Javanese, who climbed the nearest tree. The bear proceeded to follow him up the tree. Mr. L. was taking aim at the bear when, as he thought, one of his men shook him by the shoulder. Mr. L. told his disturber to "get out."

He felt himself being pulled about rather roughly and on looking over his shoulder was astonished to see a huge bear with one big paw on each of his shoulders and its gaping mouth almost touching his neck. It was impossible to use the rifle, and Mr. L. drew his hunting knife and plunged it into the side of the bear, just under the shoulder. The blade penetrated the brute's heart, and it rolled over, endeavoring to tear out the knife. The Malays and Javanese ran up and slashed the bear until life was extinct.

In the mean time the first bear was still climbing up after the Javanese. In his terror the Javanese dropped right on top of the bear. This frightened the animal and it bolted through the scrub and was not seen again.—Singapore Straits Budget.

BOY SAVES BANK.

After fastening the doors of near-by houses by setting heavy eye-screws in the door frames and fastening the door knobs to them with ropes, eight robbers attacked the front door of the Traders' Bank of Bridgeburg, a village on the Canadian side of the Niagara River, opposite Buffalo, with a battering ram, early on a recent morning.

Ralph C. Young, eighteen years old, was the only person in the bank. Armed with a revolver, he went to an upper window and opened fire. The thieves replied with revolvers and shotguns, some of the gang meanwhile continuing the work with the battering ram.

With his face streaming with blood from shattered glass and splinters of wood, Young kept up the fight for twenty minutes. The stout oak doors resisted all the efforts to break them down, and, alarmed by a shot fired from up the street by an aroused villager, the thieves fled.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

A PIN CUSHION HINT.

If you were to take apart an old pin-cushion you would find an astonishing number of needles in it. To prevent this, when you stick a needle into the cushion, stick it in slantwise, not straight down, for if put in pin fashion it is sure to work its way into the cushion and get lost.

CARE OF THE BROOM.

Keep a pailful of suds in the sink every sweeping day, and as often as the broom becomes dusty take it to the sink, dip it up and down in the pail, shake well and continue sweeping. Then, when all is swept, wash it once more before putting it away. Not only will the broom wear longer, the suds toughening the splinters, but the carpet will look brighter.

CLEAN THE OVEN.

Have the inside of the oven kept scrupulously clean. Wash the entire inside of the oven (not forgetting the roof) at least once a week. Remove the shelves and door before beginning operations, and scrape off any burnt substance with an old knife. Let the oven be kept open till quite dry and all smell of soap has passed off. A spoke brush kept for this purpose is very useful.

THE GREASY SINK.

A greasy sink is not to be tolerated, and the cleansing of it, if it be of glazed ware, may be easily accomplished with the aid of paraffin. Dip a piece of flannel in a little of the oil and then rub it over the sink. All the grease and dirt will quickly come off, and the smell of the paraffin can easily be removed by washing with soap and hot water. This treatment will have a cleansing effect on the sink pipes.

TO REPAIR A MIRROR.

To repair a damaged mirror pour upon a sheet of tinfoil about three drams of quicksilver to the square foot of foil. Rub smartly with a piece of buckskin until the foil becomes brilliant. Lay the glass upon a flat table face downward. Place the foil upon the damaged portion of the glass, lay a sheet of paper over the foil and place upon it a block of wood or a piece of marble with a perfectly flat surface; put upon it sufficient weight to press it down tightly; let it remain in this position a few hours. The foil will adhere to the glass.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES.

Foie de Veau à l'Anglaise.—Take slices of calves' liver. Put these in a pan with a large piece of butter, pepper and salt. Mince fine a bunch of parsley and a small piece of onion together. Add these to the liver. Cook about twenty minutes. Serve immediately.

Date Jelly.—Rinse a pint mould in boiling water and then in cold; put a little lemon jelly at the bottom and then arrange some halved and stoned dates in a pattern after dipping them in a jelly; pour over sufficient jelly to set the dates and then fill up the mould in layers of jelly and dates; put in a cold place until set, and, when ready, turn out into a glass dish.

Potato Flour Sponge Cake.—Beat the yolks of eight eggs with one-half pound of powdered sugar for thirty minutes; add the juice and zest of one lemon; beat the whites to a stiff froth, add them to the yolks, then fold in, without sifting, one-quarter pound potato flour; bake on a rack placed about two inches from the bottom of the oven in a very light heat for forty-five to sixty minutes, depending upon the thickness of the cake.

Date or Fig Gems.—Beat the yolks of two eggs and mix with one cupful of milk; sift a teaspoonful and a half of baking powder with half a cupful of white flour and mix with half a cupful of finely chopped figs or dates; add flour and fruit to the milk and eggs; stir in one cupful of whole wheat flour; beat the two whites of eggs stiff and fold into the mixture; bake in well-greased gem pans in a moderate oven on a rack midway of the oven.

Pepper Mangoes.—Select firm, bull-nosed peppers, as the milder Spanish ones do not make good pickles. They must, however, be perfectly green. Cut a slice from the stem and remove all the seeds, taking care not to bruise the peppers. Put the pepper cups and covers into a stone jar and cover with a strong brine. Let them stand three days, then drain and cover with clear, cold water twenty-four hours. Put into each pepper some shredded cabbage, a tiny white onion, a small string-bean, a gherkin and three or four nasturtium seeds. Make a paste of half a cup mustard seed, a tablespoonful of ground horseradish, a tablespoonful of grated mustard, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and a teaspoonful each celery seed, mace and allspice. Fill the peppers with this paste, packing in firmly, then replace the caps and tie or sew in place. Pack the peppers in a stone jar and cover with scalding hot water. Let them remain in this two days, then pour off the vinegar, reheat and again turn over the peppers. Cover close and keep in a cool, dry place.

THE MERRY SIDE OF LIFE

TEMPLE OF THE SOCIAL INANITIES.

What makes life such a silly sell
And such a grind eternal?
Most people crack shell after shell
And quite forget the kernel.

"No," responded Mr. Housekeep, "there's no such thing these days."

WHIRLING DIGITS.

"Gee, are those fellows crazy?"
"What's wrong?"
"Look at their fingers gyrating. Gosh, they'll snap them off!"
"No; it's all right. They're a couple of deaf-mute students giving their class yell."

COMFORT.

A little child ate everything she fancied, until she took sick of acute indigestion and died.
"What a comfort," exclaimed the bereaved parents, "now that she is gone, to recall that we never denied her anything."—Life.

UNREASONABLE.

She—"Now, wasn't it thoughtful of me to go out early and gather those flowers for the breakfast table?"

WORSE THAN A SNUB.

"Why don't you get up and give that sent to your father, Bobby?" reproached the lady. "Don't it pain you to see him reaching for a strap?"
"Not on a street car," chuckled Bobby, "but it pains me to see him reaching for a strap at home."—Chicago News.

QUITE ESSENTIAL.

Towne—"I believe Subbubs has bought a houseboat."

RELIEF.

The moment the nurse turned her back the rich baby ran over and kissed the poor baby frantically.
"It's such a relief to get hold of somebody who isn't sterilized," he exclaimed, in baby talk, for he spoke no English.
"I understand, old man," rejoined the poor baby, indolently.—Life.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

TO CLEAN CHAMOIS GLOVES.

Make a strong suds with white castile soap or any other kind of good white soap, and to two quarts of suds add one teaspoonful of borax dissolved in half a pint of hot water. When the suds are cold put the gloves on the hands and wash them slowly and gently, as if washing the hands, says Home Chat. Rinse in the same manner in clear water. Then draw off gently and hang in a shady place to dry, drawing them into shape when they are almost dry. When perfectly dry, rub between the hands to soften them.

DONE IN BROWN.

Very effective is a brown broadcloth redingote suit, the coat of which reaches to within four inches of the edge of the walking skirt.

The coat is lined throughout with white taffeta, and it buttons up (single breasted) with a dozen velvet buttons trimmed with silver, in the dark antique effect. It is open up the back of the skirt nearly to the waist line, and is fitted with three tabs and three buttons by which it may be fastened together.

It has hip pockets, this jaunty garment, and stitched velvet facings finish the collar and cuffs. An inlaying of white broadcloth further adorns the collar. The seams of this garment, which at the front replace the darts, are carried straight up to the shoulders, and the corresponding seams in the back of course join them exactly. This is altogether smart and tailored in effect. Philadelphia Record.

THE MORNING TOILET.

It is a fine tribute to a woman when man was heard to say: "I always think of my wife as a morning glory; she looks so bright and pretty at the breakfast table." It pays wives and mothers and sons and daughters to be careful. Impression is likely to be lasting; so greet every one in the morning looking fresh, sweet and attractive.

Great truth is contained in the sentiment: We make careful thought for the stranger, and have smiles for the sometimes guest; But off for our own The careless gown.

Though we love our own the best. In this day and age there is no excuse for women appearing before their families in soiled and unattractive morning costume. Dainty materials may be had so reasonably. A little lace and ribbon leads the dainty and sheer appearance which gives the inviting touch, and apron and sleeve protectors insure cleanliness, if preparing breakfast must be taken into consideration. These may be slipped off during the meal hour, and self-respect is sustained and also the admiration of the home's dearest and best.

CARE OF CLOTHES.

Don't be careless in putting on and taking off or putting away your clothes, as much of their beauty and life depend upon their care.

After removing a dress remove all extras in the way of beauty pins, jabots, flowers, etc., that are not a part of the dress and permanently attached. Variety is not the only reason why it is best to have changes. It is real economy, as clothes need rest.

It is economy, says the Philadelphia Telegraph, to buy good clothes, but not extravagant. Care keeps good material and well-made clothing in shape; poor ones will not respond even to good care.

All clothes keep in shape better if properly folded and padded. In putting away waists the sleeves and bodice should be "stuffed" with crumpled tissue paper, and the sleeves crossed over the bodice and the wrist part turned back, with middle of front and middle of back folded and then folded back and forth (faulike), and then folded once from top to bottom, if necessary; but it is much better if skirts can be put away full length. Never turn a skirt inside out to fold. This may be all right when hung.

Nothing else makes a dress look so untidy as spots on the goods. One of the best agents for cleaning spots is soap bark jelly. This is made by dissolving a handful of soap bark in a quart of boiling water and letting it cool.

ARRANGING OSTRICH PLUMES.

When a moderately long ostrich feather is shown as a trimming, it is more often than not attached to the crown and allowed to sweep over the back of the hat. It is so with the long feathers adorning a felt hat, the brim of which is somewhat capriciously waved in soft gentle curves. Felt and feathers are both of a deep rich purple, and also the double band of moire and satin ribbons that enriches the crown and is tied in front in a careless bow at the foot of the feather. But the different textures exhibit the colors in slightly different shades.

Quite a different arrangement is adopted for a capaline, the rim of which is turned up vertically at the back. In this case two half-long feathers are set against the upturned back of the brim and their tips curl forward over it.

The hat in question is turned smooth with peacock-blue miroir velvet, and the feathers are of the same color, fading to a somewhat pale shade at the tips. A fol of velvet encircles the crown, which is quite low and is tied in front in a cravat bow.

A third hat has three long tips arranged in a plume on one side of a high flat-topped crown. This is a felt of the new moleskin shade and the plume matches it in color. About the crown is a drapery of deep creamy satin, and there are puffed rosettes of the same underneath over the left ear and at the back.

Another hat of the same brownish drab color, but quite different in shape—the brim being narrow and flat and wider behind than in front, and the crown low—rests at the back on a cache peigne of deep peacock-blue feathers, and has, moreover, a feather of the same color attached to the side of the crown by a large button of blue Dresden china sewn down on the fold of velvet that encircles the crown.—Munich Trade Review.

THE MANLY GIRL.

Somebody has once again discovered what is the matter with our girls. It is a restless age. So many people go to and fro in the world proclaiming what is the matter with their brothers and sisters. What great mind made this last discovery it is difficult to ascertain. But you catch echoes of the discovery reverberating in all sorts of places, and from time to time the discovery itself is shouted at you either in a drawing-room or through the philosophical columns of a ladies' paper. The discovery is, indeed, rather startling. Here it is in its simplest form: "What is the matter with our girls, that they have too much common sense."

Dressed up in various phases you meet that statement several times a week just now. Perhaps, it is not so mad as it looks. Our girls, say their accusers, put off the gentle feminine charm of the past. There is something in this. It is no longer considered unwomanly not to faint at every opportunity. The ideal of our girls, their accusers pathetically complain, is no longer to be gentle and tender and clinging. On the contrary, the girl of today can give her papa several strokes and a bad temper on the links; she can hold her own with a cabman and cheat a customs official as well as most men. Our girls—their accusers, be it understood, are still speaking—no longer worship the family hearth and the homely kitchen. They would rather earn their own living, and let mamma have another servant. No longer when they see a baby do they rush to worship it. They begin to talk about hygienic diet and scientific education. Worst of all, last lurid touch in the melancholy picture, sentiment is no longer their joy. They laugh at it, alas! even more than their brothers. Thus has the glory of our girls departed. All because of too much common sense.

It is no doubt possible to have too much common sense. The gentleman who added "as at present advised" to the troth-plight, at his marriage, was suffering from an excess of this quality. There would be cause for weeping and wailing if the cult of common sense among our girls were likely to overwhelm all their emotions and turn them into capable, but uninspiring, machines. Common sense is useful, but it is not exactly the highest manifestation of the capacities of woman or man. Our girls, however, have room for plenty more common sense before they are in any danger.—London Daily Telegraph.

PRETTY THINGS TO WEAR.

Cloaks for evening wear will be made in rich brocades of delicate tints, fur-lined.

Mink, sable, ermine and chinchilla are the fashionable furs, and the prices are very high.

The great vogue of the elbow sleeve promises to continue through the season, and possibly longer.

The Richelieu shoe with small gold buckles is the correct thing for evening wear at dinner or theater.

Very pale blues, pinks and cream are much in evidence and narrow velvet ribbon is used for trimmings.

For the younger people who attend dancing-school, nur's velling, wool batiste or albatross make charming little dresses.

The popularity of the short sleeve on reception dresses has brought into prominence the wearing of bracelets once again.

White lace and mull gowns, the soft collanets, crepes and some of the other soft radium silks continue popular and are sweetly becoming.

The muffs are enormous, and the small cravats have given way to ample stoles, peleries and shawls, shaped flat bones, with long ends.

Dancing frocks are created of sheer gauze, chiffon taffetas, sprigged chiffon taffetas, striped silks, and small checks woven over with thin flower garlands.

No prettier style can be imagined than a band of black velvet worn around the wrist which fastens by a small bow and strass buckle, says Elizabeth Steadman, in the Pilgrim.

With almost all made veils is worn a face veil of thinnest pink tulle, put on over face and hair before the hat or outer veil are donned. This gives the complexion a becoming rose tint and enables one to wear almost any color of veil.
